ALDRICH BILL HAS DEFENDER

Charles G. Dawes In Washington To Appear
Before The House Committee On Banking.

ROOSEVELT FAVORS MORE VESSELS

The Question Of The Shooting Up Brownsville Was Again
Subject For Discussion In The Senate Today
By Foraker.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
Washington, D. C., April 14.—Charles G. Dawes, formerly controller of the currency, who is now president of the Central Trust Company, appeared before the house committee on banking today.

Favors Aldrich Bill
Mr. Dawes made a strong appeal in favor of the passage of the Aldrich bill which was under discussion, going even further into the measure than any of the speakers who have appeared previously.

Favors More Vessels
It was learned today that President Roosevelt will shortly send a message urging the construction of four new battleships for the navy at once.

Up to Congress
The construction of additional vessels for the navy was cut out of the report of the committee on naval affairs when they made their budget and Roosevelt's attitude is the same that he showed previously.

His Message
President Roosevelt urged congress in his special message to provide for the construction of four battleships of the largest and most improved type at once.

His Arguments
The arguments of the President to improve his position on this naval program were few, but calculated to be effective.

Not for Years
The result of the last Hague conference made it plain the nations would not for some time, if ever, agree on a plan of limitation of the naval armament.

On Arbitration
Arbitration, the President holds, cannot be relied upon as an effective remedy, though it should be utilized to its fullest extent.

Not Warlike
Disclaiming any intention on the part of the United States to ever engage in a war of conquest, the President made it plain the country could ill-afford to relax into place where an insult would have to be borne in silence.

Brownsville Affair
Senator Foraker in the Senate this morning made a careful analysis of the testimony offered at the investigation of the shooting at Brownsville, Texas, in August of 1906.

Favor Reenlistment
Senator Foraker favored the reenlistment of the colored soldiers of the 24th Infantry, who were discharged for complicity in the affair. He followed the matter out in detail in his speech.

Gas Company—Old Murder Recalled.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
Manitowoc, Wis., April 14.—Dollar gas is a prospect for Manitowoc as the result of a petition filed by the gas company with the State Gas Commission for permission to establish a uniform charge for fuel and illuminating gas at $1.25 per thousand. At present the company receives $1.50 for illuminating gas but on both there is a 25 per cent discount and under the new schedule this will provide $1.125.

Recalls a Murder
Michael J. O'Brien, a Maple Grove man, has been returned to the county asylum here from Oshkosh after eleven years at the Northern Asylum there. O'Brien's return recalls the murder of James Flogging, a brother with which he was charged. Both men resided in Maple Grove and were brothers. O'Brien had visited Flogging's home for dairy supplies and while returning home, across fields, was followed and shot by O'Brien who was adjudged insane. O'Brien is now 40.

URGEGOVERNOR TO BECOME CANDIDATE

Davidson Receives Many Invitations to Permit His Name Used for Senatorship.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
Madison, Wis., April 14.—Letters are continually coming to Governor Davidson urging him to become a candidate for the United States senate to succeed Isaac Stephenson. It is put up to the governor that his great popularity with the voters of the state, indicated by his overwhelming victory over the opposition of the La Follette organization in the primary campaign of 1906, makes him particularly available as a candidate for the primary election nomination for senator. The fact that there are already three candidates announced and probably two more to enter the race is also mentioned to the governor by his many admirers. However, he declares that he is disinclined to enter the campaign for the senate, and in fact is desirous of avoiding any contest at all. He plans to announce shortly his candidacy for a re-nomination for governor and he makes no secret of the fact that he will be pleased if no more opposition develops than the prospective ship campaign of Mayor Becker of Milwaukee.

REPRESENTATIVES OF LABOR GATHER

Southwest Opens in Fort Worth.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
Fort Worth, Texas, April 14.—The largest congress of labor representatives ever held in the Southwest, as far as the numbers represented and the interests involved are concerned, began in this city today and will continue through the greater part of the week. The congress embraces conventions of the Texas Federation of Labor, the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen, the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers, the Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen, the Texas Farmers' Union, and the Electrical Workers' Federation of the Fifth district. The several conventions, in addition to transacting a large amount of routine business, will discuss many matters of common interest, including Federal and State legislation affecting the workmen.

SEGREGATION PLANS NOT TO MATERIALIZE

So Much Opposition That the University Authorities Will Not Attempt It.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
Madison, Wis., April 14.—On account of the strenuous opposition that has developed to the plan of partial segregation of the sexes in the university, the movement will be held in abeyance for a time. President Van Hise's segregation committee having reported that it has come to no final conclusion but desires to take more time for investigation. The proposal is not for the total destruction of co-education, but it has been found that the girls so far outnumber and out-study the boys in some classes that boys dislike to enter these studies at all, and the investigation is for the purpose of ascertaining whether or not the establishment of separate classes for men only would not keep men in these studies. The classes affected are for the most part literature, child study, pedagogy and French.

BIG LEAGUES OPEN THE SEASON TODAY

Clubs of National And American
Leagues Start Race for Pennant
Today.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
New York, April 14.—This is the day for the brass bands to blare and the mobs to roar, for the great double-barreled, six months' circus of baseball has been turned loose in the land. Weather permitting, all of the clubs of the National and American leagues start today in the pennant race for 1908. The "funs" have thumped out and are heaping blessings upon the head of Harry Wright, A. G. Spalding, or whoever it was that invented baseball. For more than a month their appetite has been whetted by the roscote reports from the Southern training camps. If they do not turn out in full force in every city of the two circuits to see the first ball tossed this afternoon it will be the fault of the weatherman. New York is to see the celebrated highlanders make their bow at the home grounds, engaging the Philadelphia team in combat royal, while the Glens will wrestle with the "Phillies" in the Quaker City. From now until the second week of October New York is to have continuous baseball, and both managers and fans are looking forward to the banner year in the history of the game.

DELAWARE DEMOCRATS TO LAUNCH JUDGE GRAY'S BOOM

At The Democratic State Convention In Delaware—Campaign To Be Pushed.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
Washington, D. C., April 14.—The candidacy of Judge George Gray for the Presidential nomination on the Democratic ticket is to be launched today at the Democratic state convention in Delaware. The convention will elect delegates to the Denver convention and instruct them to stand by Delaware's favorite son from the start to the finish.

Democratic leaders here entertain various opinions as to the probable results of Judge Gray's candidacy. Many of them believe that he has entered the race too late to cut much of a figure. That his friends intend to push his candidacy in all seriousness, however, is evidenced by the fact that campaign headquarters have already been established in this city and quantities of literature in his interest are being sent broadcast throughout the country.

There are few leaders of either party who do not say unhesitatingly that Judge Gray possesses the qualities to make him strong candidate. Four years ago he probably could have had the nomination if he had expressed a willingness to accept it. But at that time he positively declined to permit the use of his name in connection with the Presidential contest.

His many admirers regard him as the type of Democrat of the old school possessing the youth and vigor to be a candidate for the Presidential chair, and having the qualities to bring to his support a large number of voters not particularly wedded to party alliance. Among the conservative members of his party Judge Gray undoubtedly has more supporters than any other man mentioned for the Presidency.

Fourteen years in the Senate, a term on the Joint High Commission to settle the dispute between the United States and Canada, a member of the Peace Commission of 1898, a member of the International Arbitration Commission to The Hague in 1900, eight years as a Judge of the United States Circuit Court, and the presidency of President Roosevelt's Coal Strike Commission these are the positions which have kept him more or less before the public eye for upwards of twenty years and have made him as conspicuous as any other Democratic public life.

Judge Gray is sixty-eight years old, and looks considerably younger. He is a man of philosophical temperament, amiable personality and attractive appearance. He is a polished orator, and while in the Senate was regarded as one of the foremost leaders of that body. Judge Gray entered the Senate as a Democrat of the old school, standing for state rights and tariff reform. He did not reach the very forefront of the Senate until the Harrison administration, when the Democrats had become the minority party. In three days he made a national reputation in advocacy of state rights and in opposition to the Force bill which President Harrison was committed to passing.

Mr. Gray, in the Senate, was a sound money man. In the strife over the financial question, when President Cleveland was sending messages after message to the Senate, warning it of the necessity for prompt action, he was in the front rank of those who sought to have something done. Thus it was that when the radical wing of the party came into control of the organization at the Chicago convention, Mr. Gray was out of it as far as the Presidential nomination was concerned.

Judge Gray went to the convention of 1896, with other Eastern Democrats, and labored with voice and pen to induce the party to stick to sound money principles. He opposed the nomination of Mr. Bryan, but nevertheless he is one of the few Democrats in the East who have not the personal enmity of the Senators. In the past few years when Mr. Bryan has visited Delaware, Senator Gray has entertained him. The Delawareans had known Mr. Bryan in Congress and admired many of his fine qualities. When the gold Democrats met at Indianapolis in 1896 to put a third ticket in the field the nomination was offered Judge Gray, but it was refused. He took the position that he owed to the Democracy of Delaware to be drawn into a position of antagonism to it.

Many leading Democrats here of the opinion that if the Denver nomination does not go to William J. Bryan then Judge Gray will stand at least an even chance to become the party standard bearer. His friends point out that he is as well known as any other Democrat whose name is mentioned in connection with the nomination and has accomplished more than any one of them.

In Delaware.
Dover, April 14.—Prior to the afternoon session of the Democratic state convention, a letter written by Judge Gray to State Chairman Bayard was shown the leaders in which the Judge requested emphatically that the convention refrain from endorsing him for the Presidential nomination. It is understood that in spite of Gray's declaration the convention will instruct the delegates to vote for him.

The Democratic state convention today endorsed Judge George Gray as Delaware's choice for the Presidential nomination of the national convention "to support, to advocate, and to vote" for his nomination. The platform demands the immediate revision of the tariff and a strenuous enforcement of the Sherman anti-trust law.

In New York.
New York, April 14.—The Democratic state convention was called to order at two this afternoon after Justice Crane had quashed his injunction granted yesterday restraining the state committee from unsealing the McGarran delegates. This matter will probably be fought out on the floor of the convention. Thomas Carmody was made temporary chairman. His address was devoted to criticism and arraignment of the republican party.

MEN NOW AT WORK IN NEW QUARTERS

CHANGE WAS MADE YESTERDAY WITH FEW HITCHES.

NEW YARDS IN OPERATION

Old Yards Are Now a Thing of the Past And Will Soon be Demolished.

Since seven o'clock yesterday morning the old yards at Janesville have been a thing of the past and the South Janesville yards are now the center of railroad activities here for the Northwestern road. The change was accomplished with very few hitches considering the magnitude of the undertaking and when the whistle blew most of the men were ready to go to work in their new quarters. The machine shops are in operation and at work on the necessary repairs for the engines and the store is being rapidly put in order. This is considerable of a job however as it is much larger than the old one. The first trick at the "80" telegraph station was taken yesterday by operator Burkhardt from Palatine, but the second and third tricks were taken by the regular operators, Carl and Woodbury and operator Blumhain took the first trick this morning which he will have from now on. The South Janesville yards do not resemble the usual railroad yards as they are situated out in the country and there is a notable absence of the usual dirt, smoke and grime which is generally found in a railroad yard. The buildings are all well lighted and freshly painted and are a great improvement over the old ones. For the time being switch engine 537 will take a coach out in the morning leaving the old yards at a quarter to seven to take the men to work and will bring out the night men in the evening returning with the day men. Whether this will be a permanent arrangement is not known as yet.

VICTORY FOR SIOUX FALLS.

Federal Judge Carland Decides Against the Water Company.

Sioux Falls, S. D., Apr. 14.—After litigation lasting for four years Sioux Falls has won a sweeping victory as a result of a decision by Federal Judge Carland in the case of Sioux Falls vs. the South Dakota Water company. Property worth $500,000 is involved. The water company claimed perpetual rights under a franchise entered into between it and the city on April 9, 1884, and which was limited to a period of 20 years. Judge Carland held in substance, that the old water company had no present rights under the 20-year franchise; that its rights for occupying the streets with its mains and furnishing water to the people of Sioux Falls existed only during the 20 years covered by the lease.

MEN BACK OF THE MODEL CIVIC GOVERNMENT AT DES MOINES, IOWA.

Des Moines, Iowa, April 10.—Following advice of "rings" and "chiques" the people of Des Moines who adopted the commission form of government last spring to rid the community of the curse of politics, defeated every politician up for office and put the reins of government in the hands of the common people. The new officers elected are: Mayor—Judge A. J. Mathis, former police judge and poor man. Councilmen—John MacVicar, popular because of previous fights against corporations. Wesley Ash, coal miner. J. L. Hanery, carpenter. Charles Schramm, former city assessor and poor man. Wealth counted for nothing in the campaign. Rich and influential business men who sought the positions were turned down. With a big committee with unknown means spending money advancing their cause business men of the "slate" were completely vanquished. The Des Moines plan was heralded as a relief from caucus methods and every movement which had the semblance of a "slate" was crushed. The city corporation turned over to these five men for conducting the next two years is valued at $8,318.50. They are unhampered in their administration. Under the law they select all their administrative officers, such as attorneys, treasurer, auditor, engineer, police judges, chief of police and detectives, etc. It is expected the city government will be divided and each councilman assigned a distinct department over which he will have absolute control and assume responsibility. He will be blamed for what goes wrong there and if he fails in his duty the "recall" section of the "Des Moines plan" law will permit his constituents to dethrone him. Wards and politics were abolished by the law. All the men were elected at large. The election brought out the biggest municipal vote Des Moines has ever had. People have become interested in the management of the city. They have placed it in the hands of the people business as the Des Moines plan has attracted national attention the result of its administration will be watched during the next two years with keenest interest. The new commissioners enter the administration of affairs burdened with a debt of over $100,000 and a bond issue of $200,000 for a new city hall, the construction of which will become one of their duties.

THE TIME TO ADVERTISE

In times of depression, when trade is dull, the inclination is to curtail advertising in the interests of economy, but this is poor business policy. The men who keep overlastingly at it are the men who win. In this connection it is interesting to note the experience of the Clinton Wire Cloth Co. of New York.

Mr. Albert Oliver, of the company, discussed the situation with the Manufacturers' Record, and related their experience with advertising during the past six months.

He said when the financial stress of last fall commenced to lessen the volume of general business his concern decided that instead of showing the white feather by curtailing their advertising expenditures they would, on the contrary, in a period of general inactivity engineers and others would give more attention to the study of improved methods as presented through the advertising columns of leading publications than they had been able to do on account of the press of business for the last 8 or 10 years.

"We have found this true," added Mr. Oliver. "Many engineers heretofore so busy that they thought they could not find time to study advertising now have time enough to do this intelligently, and we are getting splendid results as a result of keeping our selves and the Clinton welded wire for fireproofing work persistently before the business community of the whole country. I am not surprised at the result."

"I felt that any indication of a weakening on our part by a reduction of our broad campaign of advertising would tend to weaken the faith of others in the possibilities of business, and in this way curtailment by us would increase the pessimism of others. Believing that it would be possible not only to continue our campaign, but to broaden it to good advantage, we widely extended our advertising and included some publications which we had never before used, and, despite the general dullness which has unquestionably been felt throughout the country, we find ourselves very considerably ahead of the same time last year."

"Contracts which we have recently closed, some of them of very great magnitude, in all parts of the country prove that business is to be had if people will only go after it with the determination to keep before the public and to get their share."

"I do not believe in a policy which at such a time would have entailed any effort that we had been making to attract public attention to the merit of our products, but, on the contrary, as I have just stated, I took the ground in the midst of the worst of the depression that our policy should be to push ahead on still broader lines."

"Some people thought that this policy would not win out. It has unquestionably won out. In the face of the general decrease in business of all kinds throughout the land, estimated by some authorities at possibly 50 per cent as compared with a year ago, the Clinton Wire Cloth Co., as I have just stated, is doing a larger business and the prospects for the next six months, so far as we are concerned, are ahead of the first six months of 1907, which for our company, as for nearly all other companies, had up to that time been the best in our history."

The Milwaukee Free Press discovers a loop-hole in the primary law in selecting delegates to the national convention. The law is as full of holes as a sieve. The independent voter is an incompetent to vote intelligently on men that he knows nothing about, as is the small individual stockholder of a great corporation, to direct affairs of business. The law is theoretical and impractical.

The republicans will make a mistake if it adjourns without providing a non-partisan tariff commission. Much dissatisfaction prevails within the ranks of the party and results will be felt in the campaign, unless a disposition is shown to do something. The press of the country is clamoring for tariff removal on wool pulp, but this is no more important than revision on many other manufactured products, which are controlled and restricted by monopolies.

The council is to be congratulated in not doing anything with the city marshal question last night, and it will do well if it refrains from business next Monday night without referring to the subject. The city has a good officer legally elected by an organization possessing authority to act. The people generally are satisfied and the council can hardly afford to stir up needless and expensive trouble.

The Methodists of New York and New England have memorialized the general conference, which convenes in Baltimore next month, to remove from the discipline the ban on amusements. The law has long been a dead letter, as intelligent people reserve the right to judge for themselves on questions of expediency. Drastic rules of this kind have kept many conscientious young people out of the church.

With New York and Pennsylvania aided by the New England states, against Bryan, the Nebraska orator may find it difficult to secure a two-thirds majority in the Denver convention. It will be Bryan against the field and the watchdog will be anything to beat the persistent candidate.

There will apparently be a scramble for the United States Senatorial nomination before the September primaries come. The more the morrier and the harder work for the election clerks. This primary law is a great thing for some people.

Work on the new capitol building at Madison is being rushed. "Sand Wan" hill has already appeared where the new east wing is to be some day and the park itself looks like a fortress in distress.

Taft will never know whether he had one or a dozen Wisconsin votes when the Chicago convention is called. He will be nominated before he ever hears Wisconsin mentioned on the roll call.

Hughes got New York state republicans to endorse him, but there are two of the state delegation who are for Taft. The same is true of Illinois, where two Taft orphans can be found.

There are questions which even the aldermen would do well to take counsel on before they go blindly into a lawsuit that will make them the joke of the press of the state.

Why not buck up and get busy on that county fair proposition before it is too late to do anything in the matter this year?

Madison people want an interurban connection with Janesville just about as bad as Janesville wants to reach Madison by interurban.

The spring fever planting has not yet begun, but it will come soon.

THOUSANDS DIE IN FLOODS

TERRIBLE DISASTER OCCURS AT HANKOW, CHINA.

Seven Hundred Junks Sunk or Wrecked—Sudden Freshet Overwhelms People in the Night.

Shanghai, Apr. 14.—Disastrous floods are reported to have occurred at Hankow, in the province of Hu-Peh.

It is stated that 2,000 persons have been drowned.

Seven hundred junks were sunk or wrecked.

The floods are said to be due to an unexpected freshet.

The waters caught the people unexpectantly in the middle of the night.

Floods throughout China are of yearly occurrence, but the freshet came with such force at Hankow that before the inhabitants of the city were able to leave their homes they were carried off by the currents.

The number of dead is declared.

may be near 2,500 (than 2,000, for, according to couriers who brought in the news from villages adjacent to Hankow, almost the entire city was wiped out. Not only did the persons in the lowlands feel the disastrous floods, but navigators, seemingly protected from such disaster, were also drowned by hundreds, according to reports.

Just how many persons were drowned by being wrecked or carried down while aboard the 700 junks which were lost is impossible to state at this time because details are lacking. It is reported that when the freshet hit Hankow, on the coast of the province of Hu-Peh, most of the inhabitants had not yet arisen from their beds. Hundreds hearing the roar of the on-coming waters sought to escape to higher levels, but when they rushed to their doors they were carried backwards by the freshet and either drowned or pounded to death against the wreckage of the houses.

EXAMINATION OF BOWER THURSDAY

Pending Trial on Statutory Charge the Gay Young Man is Under $300 Bail Bonds.

Edward Henry Bower, a young man of fine appearance and elegant attire who was arrested at the Park hotel at midnight in company with a Mrs. Adole Tate, appeared in municipal court at two o'clock this afternoon in answer to a statutory charge. His hearing was set for Thursday morning, and meantime he will have to secure $300 bail bonds or remain in the county jail. Mrs. Tate will probably not be prosecuted and she will be held as a witness against Bower. The woman who claims to be Bower's wife has complained to the police on several occasions of late that her husband was spending her money and running about with other women. However, she stood by him loyally in the court room and accompanied him to the county jail, weeping bitterly most of the time. Mrs. Tate, who is reputed to have left her husband some years ago, claims that Bower deceived her in representing himself as an unmarried man. This morning Organizer Albright of the new lodge of Columbian Knights recently instituted here, visited Bower at his cell in the lock-up and persuaded him to resign the presidency of the Janesville branch and give up the lodge papers which he had in his possession. Bower and Mrs. Tate were registered as man and wife at the hotel and the arrest was made by Officers John and Sam Brown.

GROSS INJUSTICE TO HERMAN TOPP

Reports That He Was Mentally Unbalanced or Forged Checks Were Without Foundation.

Herman C. Topp of the town of Center was in the city yesterday and stated that much of the report regarding his recent actions is exaggerated and misrepresented. He said: "I did not know the officers were looking for me and I was not trying to elude them. When they came to our farm I was not at home, having been for several days with my sister here in Janesville. The report as to my forging checks is also untrue. I did not forge any check, neither have I lost my reason, as has been stated. I expect that many of the accusations made against me will be cleared up at the proper time."

A Lazy Liver

May be only a tired liver, or a starved liver. It would be a stupid as well as a savage thing to beat a weary or starved man because he lagged in his work. So in treating the lagging, torpid liver it is a great mistake to lash it with strong drastic drugs. A torpid liver is but an indication of an ill-nourished, enfeebled body whose organs are weary with overwork. Start with the stomach and allied organs of digestion and nutrition. Put them in working order and see how quickly your liver will become active. Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery has made many marvelous cures of "liver trouble" by its wonderful control of the organs of digestion and nutrition. It restores the normal activity of the stomach; increases the secretions of the blood-making glands; cleanses the system from poisonous accumulations; and so relieves the liver of the burdens imposed upon it by the deflection of other organs.

If you have bitter or bad taste in the morning, or a variable appetite, coated tongue, foul breath, constipated or irregular bowels, feel weak, easily tired, experience frequent headaches, pain or distress in "small of back," gnawing or distressed feeling in stomach, perhaps nausea, "rises" in throat after eating, and kindred symptoms of weak stomach and torpid liver, no remedy will relieve you more promptly and surely than Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. Perhaps only a part of the above symptoms will be present at one time and yet point to torpid liver or biliousness and weak stomach. Avoid all hot breads and biscuits, griddle cakes and other indigestible food and take the Golden Medical Discovery "regularly and stick to it" until you are vigorous and strong.

The "Discovery" is non-secret, non-alcoholic, is a glyceric extract of native medicinal roots with a full list of its ingredients printed on each bottle wrapper and attested under oath. Its ingredients are endorsed and attested by the most eminent medical writers of the age and are recommended to cure the diseases for which it is advised.

Don't accept a substitute of unknown composition for this non-secret medicine of known composition.

THE CAPTAIN OF the KANSAS

By LOUIS TRACY.

Author of "The Wines of the Morning," "The Pillar of Light," Etc.

COPYRIGHT, 1906, BY EDWARD J. CLODE

Two officers and a quartermaster spring forward. In an incredibly short space of time the crew were working with redoubled frenzy, but under control and with a common object. For an instant Courtney was free to attend to his chief officer. He drew him to the lighted saloon companion. Boyle was deathly pale under the tan of his skin. The captain saw that his own left hand where it clasped the other round the waist was covered with blood.

"Below there?" he cried. "Bring two men here, Mr. Malcolm."

When the chief steward came he gave directions that Mr. Boyle should be taken to the saloon and Dr. Christobal summoned.

"Send some one you can trust to return," he continued. "Go then to the lee of the promenade deck. You will find others there."

He did not stop to ask himself if solitude for the unfortunate wounded in the light years of any avail. His mind was clear, the habit of command strong in him. Not until the sea claimed him would he cease to rule. The clank of pulleys, the cries of the sailors heaving at the ropes, told him that the crew were at work. At last he was free to go to the bridge.

He found the quartermaster in the chart house on his knees. When the ship struck, the officer of the watch had been thrown headlong to port. Recovering his feet before a tumbling sea could fling him overboard, he hunked himself out of danger just in time to take part in the fray on deck. He came back now, hurrying to join the captain, Courtney, standing in the shelter of the chart house, was peering through the flying sea to leeward. The sea was darker there than it had been for hours. Around the ship the surface was milky with foam, but beyond the area of the shoal there seemed to be a remote chance for a boat to live.

"We're on a sort of breakwater, sir," said the second officer.

"Seems like it. Is the ship hard and fast?"

"I am afraid so."

"I think the weather is moderating. Go and see how the barometer stands."

"Steady improvement, sir," came the report.

"Any water coming in?"

"Mr. Walker said he thought not."

"Perhaps it doesn't matter. Try to get the first lifeboat lowered. Let her carry as many extra hands as possible. We have lost two boats. But do not send any women in her. If all is well, let them go in the next one. Take charge of her yourself."

"Would you mind tying this handkerchief tightly just here, sir?"

The second officer held out his left forearm.

"Were you knifed, too?" asked Courtney.

"It is not much, but I am losing a good deal of blood."

"The brute—the unreasonable brute!" muttered the captain. As he knotted the linen into a rough tourniquet the other asked:

"Shall I report to you when the first boat gets away, sir?"

"No need. I shall see what happens. When she is clear I shall bring the ladies to you."

Pride of race helped these men to talk as collectedly as if the ship were laid alongside a Thames wharf. They knew not the instant the Kansas might lift again and turn turtle, yet they did not dream of deviating a hair's breadth from their duties. The second officer went off to carry out the captain's instructions. Courtney followed a little way, peering to leeward of the chart-house until he reached his own quarters. "There was 150 tons in that side, but light streamed through a couple of large portholes across which the curtains had not been drawn. He looked in. Elsie was leaning against the table to balance herself on the sloping deck. She held Joey in her arms. She seemed to be talking to the dog, who answered in his own way by trying to lick her face. The glass was so blurred that Courtney could not see that she was crying.

"Better wait," he muttered and turned his gaze seaward again. Yes, there could be no doubt that the almost unbroken swell within half a cable's length of the ship promised a possibility of escape. There was no telling what dangers lay beyond. To his reckoning, the nearest land was twenty miles distant, but the shoal water might extend all the way, and, with a falling wind, waves once disintegrated would not regain any considerable size. It was a throw of the dice for life, but it must be taken. He indulged in a momentary thought as to his own course. Would he leave the ship in the last boat? Yes, if every wounded man on board were taken off first, and how could he entertain even a shred of hope that his cowardly crew would preserve such discipline to the end as to permit of that being done?

The answer to his mute question came sooner than he expected. He had been standing there alone about five minutes, intently watching the set of the sea, so as to determine the best time for lowering a boat, when, amid the sustained shriek of the wind and the lashing of the spray, he heard sounds which told him that the forward port lifeboat was being swung outward on the davits. The hurricane deck was a mass of confused figures. The two boats to starboard, a lifeboat and the jolly boat, had been carried across the deck in readiness to take the places of the port lifeboats. A landman might think that medley resigned supreme, but it was not so. Sailor-like work was proceeding with the utmost speed and system when an accident happened. For some reason never ascertained, though it was believed that the man in the leading boat were too anxious to clear the falls and failed to take the proper precautions, the heavy craft pitched sternforemost into the sea. She sank like a stone, and with her went a number of Chileans. Their despairing yells, coming up from the churning froth, seemed to be a signal for the demoniac passions latent in the crew to burst forth again, this time in a consuming blaze that would not be stayed. Each man fought blindly for himself, heedless now of all restrictions.

The knowledge of this latest disaster spread with amazing rapidity. Up from the saloon came a rush of stewards and others. Overborne in the panic-stricken flight, Gray, Tollenache, Christobal, the French count and the head steward, not knowing what new catastrophe threatened, brought Mr. Somerville and the almost inanimate woman with them, leaving to their fate those who, like Boyle, were unable to move. Some of the mob rushed up the bridge companion; others made for the after ladders used only by sailors; others again swung themselves to the spar deck by the rails and availing standards. Even before Courtney could reach the scene both the second and third officers were stricken, this time mortally. He saw one of the infuriated mutineers leave the third officer's body overboard, a final quietness for some injury previously received.

He emptied his revolver into the tumbling mass of men, but he was swept aside by the fresh gang from the saloon and perhaps owed his escape from instant death by falling on the slippery deck. He was up again, shouting, entreating, striking right and left, but he felt bitterly that his efforts now were of no avail, and he thought him that there was only one resource left. These frenzied wretches would destroy themselves and all others, so if he would save even a few of the lives entrusted to his care, at least one of the boats must be protected. The struggle was fiercest for the possession of the two lifeboats. By a determined effort the jolly boat might be secured.

So he ran to obtain help from the few he could trust, from the tiny company of white men he had left in the saloon. He met them, a forlorn procession, coming up to the bridge. The all-powerful instinct of self-preservation, aided, no doubt, by the stinging, drenching showers of spray, had gone far toward reanimating Isabel and her maid, while Mrs. Somerville, a woman advanced in years, was able to walk, though benumbed with the sudden cold. Courtney unlocked the door of his cabin. Elsie, her face pale and tear-stained, but outwardly composed, was yet standing near the table, and the dog sprang from her arms the moment his master appeared.

"Thank God!" she said, all of a flutter now that the solitary waiting for a death which came not was ended. "I feared I should never see you again. Is the ship lost?"

The wild shouting of the wind rendered her words indistinct, and the captain had no time for explanations. "In here," he shouted to Gray, who had helped Isabel to enter the chart room, the first refuge available on this exposed deck.

"Sharp with it!" he thundered when Isabel was unwilling to face the storm

So long as you suffer the pains of indigestion, you are making a cure impossible.

Nothing but Kodol alone can do that. Nothing but Kodol contains all the elements necessary. We have proved this in numerous laboratory tests.

Other aids digest some foods. They give part of the help that is needed. Kodol gives complete relief. This is easily proved. Eat what you need of the food that you want, and learn how Kodol takes care of it.

And its action is instant. Kodol is put up in liquid form, as it must be. All the elements needed for perfect digestion cannot be put up otherwise.

The action of Kodol begins in the mouth, by starting the flow of saliva. When it gets to the stomach it does all that is necessary. It causes complete digestion, and brings complete relief. There is no other way to do that.

Our Guarantee

You can prove the effect of Kodol without risking a penny. With the first large bottle, ask for the signed guarantee. Your druggist has it. If the results are not satisfactory, take the empty bottle back with the warrant, and the druggist will return your money.

This offer applies to the large bottle only, and to but one in a family. You will then know what Kodol does. And you will never again permit yourself to suffer from indigestion.

Kodol is prepared at the laboratories of F. C. DeWitt & Co., Chicago. The $1.00 bottle contains 2½ times as much as the 50c bottle.

There are, in these days, many aids to digestion. But they are only aids.

Pepsin, for instance, digests albumen only. And digesters depending on pepsin aid merely to this extent.

But much of your food is starch, and much is fat. These elements must be digested too.

Each man fought blindly for himself, heedless now of all restrictions.

again. "The men took their 350 from his imperative tone. Gray clasped Isabel in his arms and lifted her bodily through the doorway. The others followed his example. Soon the three women were with Elsie in the cabin. Isabel, by sheer reaction from her previous hysteria, was sudden now and heedless of all considerations save her own misery. When she set eyes on Elsie she snapped out:

"You here?"

"Yes, Captain Courtney brought me to his cabin after our return from the fore saloon."

"Oh, did he? And he left me with those devils beneath?"

They both heard Courtney's hurried order:

"Leave the ladies here until we can come for them. Follow me at once."

The door slammed behind the men. Elsie helped Mrs. Somerville to a chair. Then she turned to Isabel and said gently:

"It is a slight thing to discuss when any moment may be our last, but the captain placed me here while he went to bring you. He had gone only a few seconds when the ship struck."

The crest of a wave pounded over the upper works and reached the solid beams and planks of the cabin until they creaked. "The ship lifted somewhat as the sea enveloped her."

"Oh, this is awful!" shrieked Isabel. "If I must die, let me die quickly! I shall go mad!"

"Calm yourself, dear. There must be an end of our sufferings soon. Perhaps we may escape even yet."

Digests All Food

Kodol alone digests all sorts of food. Its action is instant; its results are complete. Pepsin alone won't do that. There are other elements just as important in a perfect digester. Please note our guarantee.

Complete relief requires the digestion of all sorts of food, and Kodol alone can do that.

Nothing but Kodol contains all the elements necessary. We have proved this in numerous laboratory tests.

Other aids digest some foods. They give part of the help that is needed. Kodol gives complete relief. This is easily proved. Eat what you need of the food that you want, and learn how Kodol takes care of it.

And its action is instant. Kodol is put up in liquid form, as it must be. All the elements needed for perfect digestion cannot be put up otherwise.

The action of Kodol begins in the mouth, by starting the flow of saliva. When it gets to the stomach it does all that is necessary. It causes complete digestion, and brings complete relief. There is no other way to do that.

Our Guarantee

You can prove the effect of Kodol without risking a penny. With the first large bottle, ask for the signed guarantee. Your druggist has it. If the results are not satisfactory, take the empty bottle back with the warrant, and the druggist will return your money.

This offer applies to the large bottle only, and to but one in a family. You will then know what Kodol does. And you will never again permit yourself to suffer from indigestion.

Kodol is prepared at the laboratories of F. C. DeWitt & Co., Chicago. The $1.00 bottle contains 2½ times as much as the 50c bottle.

ELABORATE EVENING COSTUME.

The present day fashionable use of ribbons is attractively illustrated in this evening gown of white satin ribbon of various widths combined with spangles, net and pompadour ribbon. The skirt is of the net with the upper portion showing applied strips of the ribbon running from the waist-line to the neck; below this the net is applied with spider webs of shirred baby ribbon, and the foot is finished with a pompadour net, edged with double narrow frills, lined with narrow satin ribbon. Lace and net form the bodice and elbow length sleeves, and the girle is of the pompadour ribbon with a wash of this and the satin weave. A ribbon pompon and an aligrette make an attractive hair-dressing.

Building Had Many Uses.

An old brick laboratory in Middletown, Conn., which was torn down recently, has been put to many uses since its erection in 1825. Originally it was a gunhouse, but it has since been used as a hospital, an eating house, a carpenter shop, an icehouse and an electrical laboratory.

World's Best Clock.

The world's best timekeeper is said to be the electric clock in the basement of the Berlin observatory, which was installed by Prof. Foster in 1805. It is included in an air-tight glass cylinder and has frequently run for periods of two or three months with an average daily deviation of only fifteen-thousandths of a second.

New Repair Method.

Finnegan's Little boy came home crying because his new bicycle was out of commission on account of a punctured tire. "Never mind, little man," said Finnegan, "I will take it to the repair shop and have the tire vulcanized."

GO RIGHT AT IT.

Friends and Neighbors in Janesville Will Show You How.

Get at the root of the trouble. Rubbing an itching back may relieve it.

But it won't cure it. You must reach the root of it—the kidneys.

Don't's Kidney Pills go right at it. Reach the cause; relieve the pain. They cure, too, so Janesville people say.

Mrs. J. M. Wilson, of 202 Mineral Point Ave., Janesville, Wis., says: "I had been suffering with my back for a number of years. I had constant pain in the loins and I felt so generally weak and run-down that I often felt that I could not keep up."

I used liniments and other remedies, but did not help me, and finally, seeing Don's Kidney Pills highly recommended in our papers, I sent to the Drug Co., procured a box and began using them. A few doses were sufficient to rid me of the pain and I continued using the remedy until entirely cured. My son found the same satisfaction in using them for bladder trouble as he has been entirely free from it since using Don's Kidney Pills."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-McMillan Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents for the United States.

FORTY YEARS AGO

Janesville Daily Gazette, Tuesday, April 14, 1868.—Settled.—It will be seen that the contest for alderman of the third ward was settled in the council last night, by a resort to the means prescribed in the charter when the vote is a tie, to-wit, by casting lots. Mr. Millmore drew the successful ticket from the hat and is therefore the alderman for the two years ensuing.

The Largest Vote Janesville Ever Cast.—It has been our impression that the largest vote Janesville ever cast was in the excited municipal election of 1878 when Mr. William A. Lawrence, running against himself and cleaned him out, but upon examination of the files we find that the largest vote ever cast was thrown at the recent election, being 1322. It is quite manifest that our city is growing steadily and healthily. Not only is this shown by the vote but by the general demand for dwelling houses, which are far too few for the numbers desiring them.

The parties who had a hand in splitting away the little Rockbrook girls—an account of which we gave a few days since—have been arrested for kidnapping under the provisions of chapter 161, section 2 of the Revised Statutes. These implicated are Mr.

Dearborn of the Schuyler house, who is reported to have led the children by a back way to a rear street, and helped put one of the children into the wagon against her will, and Mr. Rothrock, Dr. Horne, and Thompson, the driver of the team.

A Fire Steamer at Last.—As we have been of the number who esteem the purchase of a fire steamer by this city a desirable thing to do we are gratified that the council has at last taken a decided stand in this matter. We know very well that many have been opposed to a steamer not only on account of its cost, but on the ground of the expense to be incurred in running it, and furthermore because they deemed the present machinery sufficient. But we have taken some pains at a fire to see whether these gentlemen opposed to the steamer proposition, were the first to take hold of the brakes and the last to quit. And our observation has been that they rarely or never begin and hence there is no necessity for them to quit. Steam can do the work better on an engine and more efficiently than mule and we believe it is the part of wisdom to avail ourselves of it. If we are not greatly mistaken the council in voting to purchase a steamer have but carried out the wishes of the people in this respect.
